

SUMMARY PROFILE

About Us

IRI Analytix is an international private-intelligence, investigations, and security organization providing the best in analysis and technology to help its clients better control business risks. We are committed to better decision making by our clients around the world: corporations, government entities, military organizations, and individuals.

Our Team

IRI Analytix is managed by strategic professionals from multinational corporations and major risk management firms including financial services, insurance, legal, government, and management consulting.

Our team also consists of project specialists, all with experience in Federal law enforcement, U.S. and foreign government, military, and multinational corporate security. This includes the FBI, NCIS, and FDA Office of Criminal Investigation, as well as the intelligence community: the U.S. State Department, CIA, NSA, Naval Intelligence, and the Department of Justice.

How We Are Different

This combination of strategic professionals and project specialists provides IRI Analytix with two distinctive core competencies:

- Analysis: more comprehensive, with strategic insights, new perspectives and proactive solutions
- Technology: our proprietary internet intelligence and advanced computer investigations are unsurpassed
