
INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

IRI Analytix engages in Corporate Intelligence, Security Intelligence, and Information Management aimed at allowing clients to be better informed regarding inherent risks of doing business.

Information Management provides client management supplemental intelligence resources not otherwise accessible in routine business operations by using high-level analysis and government intelligence community techniques. IRI Analytix's approach to Information Management includes four basic areas:

Intelligence Reporting

IRI Analytix provides daily, weekly, and monthly intelligence reports surrounding the movements of international terrorist groups and other factions.

IRI Analytix helps multinational corporations monitor activities in various countries for international travel purposes and to be alert to activities which may adversely impact personnel and operations in troubled locations.

High-level Internet Monitoring: Internet Intelligence Plus™

IRI Analytix provides the capability to monitor internet activity pertaining to specific client needs.

IRI Analytix deploys technologies, techniques, and methodologies to capture internet information either in anticipation of a problem or upon an occurrence. Threats may be posed against the corporation or against individuals including senior management.

IRI Analytix provides tracking and reporting regarding domestic-antagonists (including disruptive special interest groups). Clients benefit by having the internet monitored in multiple locations simultaneously with salient real-time information (not just archived information) captured and delivered immediately.

Sovereign & Country Risk Analysis: Risk Control Schematic™

IRI Analytix undertakes research, analysis, and reporting with focus on both political and commercial risks.

Such analysis, the Risk Control Schematic™, includes “sovereign risk” (country administration) and “country risk” (country economics) as well as underlying “custom and usage” risk (local business practices) inherent in specific countries. Such analysis includes industry and market risk useful to multinational corporations operating in foreign locations. Foreign operations typically carry uncertainties regarding labor conditions, competition with local producers, and intellectual property abuse including counterfeiting.

IRI Analytix personnel are long-experienced in CIA, State Department, military and private sector intelligence and investigations. IRI Analytix Global Intelligence specialists all have additional backgrounds in international finance and economics, and all have taught at the university level.

Specialized Analysis

IRI Analytix provides specialized analysis to allow clients access to information on topics relevant specifically to them or their industry, domestically and globally. Industry vulnerability often surrounds source-of- supply disruptions, non-conforming business practices, and hidden costs of doing business in various locations. Also, specialized analysis supplements feasibility studies for both new and expanding business operations.